FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

APPA Recognizes Five as Industry “Pacesetters”

July 24, 2014, Alexandria Va. – APPA is pleased to recognize five emerging professionals for their contributions to APPA and the facilities management profession with the 2014 Pacesetter Award.

The recipients are: Jerry Carlson, Butler University; Andrew P. Christ, New Jersey Institute of Technology; Dana Peterson, University of New Hampshire; Steve Peary, University of Vermont; and Dan Park, Whitman College.

“The Pacesetter Award recognizes the contributions of the upcoming generation of education facilities professionals,” said David Cain, APPA’s Immediate Past Vice President, Professional Affairs, and the chair of the Awards and Recognition Committee. “Recipients have already demonstrated leadership capability at the local and regional chapter level and are poised to make major contributions to the profession of education facilities management in the coming years.”

Pacesetter recipients must be active members of APPA for a minimum of three years and participate in meetings or other functions. They demonstrate service to the association through contributions at the international, regional or chapter level that include but are not limited to: member of an official APPA committee, task force, or program; through an official APPA Training program or special project; or professional authorship or presentation for an APPA publication or educational conference.

Award recipients were recognized during the 2014 APPA Annual Conference and 100th Anniversary celebration in San Diego, July 21-23, 2014.
